A way with wood

CHAINSAW sculptor Mick Burns has been creating a buzz in Victoria Park with his latest wooden creations.

The award winning artist's work is already evident in the Stretford park - his crocodile,

by Kirsty Elleray

boat and bird sculptures are displayed in the under-fives play area.

Older visitors have also taken delight in the artworks found elsewhere in the park.

The official unveiling of the sculptures will be held on Saturday, October 10 when residents will be invited for a drink, a piece of cake and a tour of the park. The work has been bought with funding from The Airport Community Trust Fund, secured by the Friends of Victoria Park.
