WILLS and Kate proved the inspiration for the winners of a park competition.

Olivia and Anna Kirrane, seven and four, depicted the royal bride and groom in their top entries for an egg painting competition.

The sisters, of Moreton Avenue, Stretford, also joined more than 200 youngsters in an Easter egg hunt at Victoria Park.

Mum Mel said: "The girls have been making the eggs at their Rainbow group, and on the day of the competition, when Anna came up with the idea of making a princess, Olivia said she would make a prince."

"They were delighted to win the competition and both won skipping ropes."

The St Hugh of Lincoln Primary pupils will attend a special royal party tomorrow at their Stretford-based 5th Rainbow group.

WINNERS... Olivia and Anna Kirrane with their designs

The egg painting contest was judged by Stretford MP Kate Green.

Prizes were also handed out for the best Easter bonnets.

The event helped raise more than £500 for the park's friends group. Friends chairwoman, Shelly Quinton-Hulme, said: "This is the eighth year we have held the event and it attracted children from all over Trafford and raised vital money for the group."
